

BANG! WENT THE RECEIVER

Miss Davenport Won't Discuss Her Militant Act.

(Special to The Eagle.)

Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., September 18—Although Miss Millia Davenport, daughter of Professor Charles Davenport, the noted eugenicist, connected with the Carnegie Institute here, insisted that she was within her rights, her father yesterday compelled her to apologize for tearing down the anti-suffrage posters displayed on a tree in the yard of Mrs. Joseph Hewlett Willetts. Miss Davenport, who is a junior at Barnard, upholds suffrage as ardently as Mrs. Willetts opposes it, and the sight of the posters developed her militancy. She apologized only under paternal pressure.

"She is a Suffragist," said Mrs. Willetts, commenting on the case to an Eagle reporter today, "and a Suffragist will do anything, lawful or unlawful. But she is also young, and we shouldn't be too hard on her. I don't believe she would have torn the posters down had she known my daughter placed them there."

Miss Davenport, when called on the 'phone, waxed sarcastic, and refused to affirm or deny the story, and when pressed for a statement hung up the receiver with a bang.
